DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

1. The amendment filed on August 03, 2007 has been received and entered. The applicant elected claims 1-14 and 31-35 and withdrew claims 15-30 and 36-47. The currently pending claims considered below are Claims 1-14 and 31-35.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

2. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claim 31 is non statutory. The claimed system is constructed of software program instructions. Thus, the claimed system comprising an interface with the operating environment, and operating system module and an interface with the target operating system is considered as software program containing machine-executable instructions, per se (and not associated with any physical structure). See MPEP 2106.01 - I: "...computer programs claimed as computer listings per se, i.e., the descriptions or expressions of the programs, are not physical "things." They are neither computer components nor statutory processes, as they are not "acts" being performed. Such claimed computer programs do not define any structural and functional interrelationships between the computer program and other claimed elements of a computer which permit the computer program's functionality to be realized...".

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that forms the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claims 1-14 and 31-35 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Wilkinson et al. (US 20020091800).

As to Claims 1, 31-33, Wilkinson teaches a method and system for exporting a software model to different operating systems, the method comprising:

providing a software model (Figure 1; paragraph 62);

providing a porting layer, the porting layer porting the software model to an operating environment (Figure 1; paragraph 61 and 63);

providing an operating environment, the operating environment common to all the different operating systems (Figure 1; paragraph 60); and providing a plurality of operating system abstraction layers, each abstraction layer designed to abstract the operating environment to at least one targeted operating system (Figure 1; paragraph 54-62).

As to claim 2, Wilkinson teaches, wherein the at least one targeted operating system is a single operating system (Figure 1; paragraph 18).

As to claim 3, Wilkinson teaches, wherein the at least one targeted operating system is two operating systems and the method for exporting a software model in a wireless device, a first of the two operating systems is a system operating system and a second of the two operating systems is a communication operating system (Figure 1, paragraph 22; 60; 64).

As to claim 4, Wilkinson teaches, wherein the system operating system operates on an advanced reduced instruction set processor (RISC) and the communication operating system operates on a digital signal processor (DSP) (paragraph 13; 64;73).

As to claim 5, it's rejected for the same reasons claim 4 above.

As to claim 6, Wilkinson teaches, wherein the communication module has an associated shared memory for use in performing operations of code derived from the software model (Figure 1 :38; content server).

As to claim 7, Wilkinson teaches, wherein the at least one target operating system is a plurality of operating systems(Figure 1, paragraph 60).

As to claim 8, Wilkinson teaches, wherein the operating environment operates independently of processor boundaries (Figure 1, paragraph 27).

As to Claim 9, Wilkinson teaches, wherein the operating system abstraction layer defines the processor boundaries and facilitates communication across the processor boundaries (Figure 1, paragraph 19; 60).

As to claim 11, Wilkinson teaches, wherein the wireless communication device is a wireless transmit/receive unit (paragraph 64).

As to claims 12-14 and 34-35, they are rejected for the same reasons the claims above.

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to the applicant's disclosure.

Schaefer (US 20020174215 discloses an operating system abstraction and protecting layer.

Tavoletti et al. (US 20010027464) discloses an operating system abstraction interface for broadband terminal.

Tavoletti et al. (US 6721949) discloses kernel abstraction layer for digital television set-top box firmware.
